It has been a good week for the Indie Dance/Nu Disco aficionado. These two tracks were graciously released as free downloads - with the promise of more to come!

Bit Funk – "The Long Road Ahead"

Bit Funk made this track available last week and it is a deep groove to be reckoned with. The title, "The Long Road Ahead", hints at the track's subtle, uplifting quality while simultaneously touching on its somber nature, which makes it worthy of its foreboding name.

Who knew that Bit Funk was capable of such sinister sounds? Head over to his Facebook for even more free tracks, all of them dripping in disco vibes.

Hey Champ – "Cliché"

Hey Champ have been meandering in the peripheral of Indie Dance fame for a few years now. Gaining attention for their stellar remixes of Sebastien Tellier and Housse de Racket, they have since crafted their own productions, which possess the same energy and synth-heavy flair of their remixes.

Ironically, this track is more of a dismissal of all things "cliché" because, despite having undeniable pop lyrics, the synth riffs and guitar chords keep it far from anything that would be considered cheesy, pop territory.

Tim D — I certainly would not say this tops IDGAFOS, but it's a nice new direction away from the moombahton.
